The insurer says the platform, built in collaboration with brokers, demonstrates a broader commitment to zurich modernization, creating a digital experience that is intuitive, faster and more flexible. The city's online will be supported by the Centre of Excellence in Leeds and Cardiff, which houses specialist underwriters who have the right to make decisions and provide faster answers. The insurer has also revised and improved its SME policy as part of this launch, including a new digital combined product that includes seven existing products in one, including Cyber, contractors of all risks, and legal costs. THE head of SMEs Paul Tomb said: We have always listened to our brokers and we have consistently sought to modernize, evolve and explore new ways to make zurich easier to deal with. We have a hunger and desire to help brokers win and maintain the SME business, so this launch represents a very significant and exciting step forward for zurich and the offer we offer to our brokers and their clients. SMEs are the blood of the UK economy and we understand that SMEs have a strong and direct emotional connection to their business - they have worked hard to build it, we are working hard to protect it. Accept and continue Extranets have become standard in insurance industry - but we don't believe in just delivering the standard. We know brokers value efficiency, but because you also value differentiation, our electronic trading products are always innovative, niche or both. Because we go beyond the ordinary, our appeal lies in our underwriting. We develop products for risks that other companies cannot or will not take into account. Our non-standard products can be found on industry software homes because we know that our brokers rely on them for a wide selection of products and back office support. We don't just build products for the software house industry however, We also build our partners' own customized systems. All of our products are designed and supported by underwriters, so we know that the products we build will be sold. We want to move away from the similarities and work in markets where only specialists work. Our uniqueness, breadth and depth are why people want to work with us. As a result, we create unique assemblies for intermediaries of all shapes and sizes, from the smallest and most niche to household brands; These partners turn to us for products for hard to place, fold-off, even unheard of. We also used our knowledge of custom assemblies to develop our own system. Our easy-to-use pen Central hub offers a wide range of specialized products, as well as an exceptionally intuitive and easy-to-use hub. 377w601m3.4 377w601m3.4
